March of the Deathless Dead.

BY FATHER RYAN.

Gather the sacred dust
Of the warriors tried and true,
Who bore the flag of a nation's trust
And fell in a cause, though lost, still
And died for me and you.

Gather them one and all,
From the private to the chief;
Come they from hovel or princely hall,
The fell for us, and for them should
The tears of a nation's grief.

Gather the corpses strewn
O'er many a battle plain;
From many a grave that lies so lone,
Without a name, and without a stone,
Gather the southern slain.

We care not whence they came,
Dear in their lifeless clay!
Whether unknown, or known to fame,
Their cause and country still the
They died—and wore no gray.

Wherever the brave have died,
They should not rest apart,
Living, they struggled side by side,
Why should the hand of death divide
A single heart from heart?

Gather their scattered clay,
Wherever it may rest;
Just as they marched to the bloody fray,
Just as they fell on the battle day,
Bury them breast to breast.

The foeman need not dread
This gathering of the brave;
Without sword or flag and with soundless tread
We muster once more our deathless dead.

Out of each lonely grave,
The foeman need not frown,
They are all powerless now;
We gather them here and lay them
down,
And tears and prayers are the only crown.

We bring to wreath each brow,
And the dead thus meet the dead,
While the living o'er them
weep;
And the men by Lee and Stone all led,
And the hearts that once together
bled,
Together still shall sleep.

The Dallas cotton mill recently purchased 1600 bales of cotton at Terrell, and the railroad freight rate having been increased by the McCormick decision from $1 to $1.50 per bale, the mill has arranged to have the cotton hauled on wagons for $1 per bale.—Texas Farm and Ranch.

A fashion paper declares that in England a fashionable woman can not dress herself properly with less than $5000 a year. A woman who requires that much fixing up in order to pass inspection must be a rather poor sample. One of our Texas women could charm an anchorite and do it on $500 a year.—Texas Farm and Ranch.
